STARTS CIVIL SUIT TO RECOVER $1,500

Mrs. Kate Kennedy Claims That Elmer Ellsworth Is Indebted to Her for That Amount.

At the instance of Jeffris, Monell, Smith & Avery, attorneys for Mrs. Kate Kennedy, a civil warrant, issued on the grounds that money has been obtained under false pretenses and designed to prevent the defendant from leaving the state pending the trial of a suit for $1,500, was served on Elmer Ellsworth by Sheriff R. G. Schellert this afternoon. Mrs. Kennedy claims that she advanced in all about $2,500 to Mr. Ellsworth and that she received in return a promissory note for $1,500. The difference between the $2,500 and the $1,500 was the bank of the recent action against him for obtaining money under false pretenses. It is this latter item which makes it possible to have the defendant put under bonds to guarantee an appearance, with the alternative of going to jail (should there be paid by the plaintiff). The bonds are for $250 and were signed by C. W. Kennedy and by Otto E. Dietrich, who returned from Okauchie, Ind. this afternoon.

MAY WORK ON FARMS OR DELIVER PAPERS

Child Labor Law of State Placed in Shape for Passage—Taboo Most All Labor.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., May 1.—The child labor law was placed by the usual judicial machinery yesterday afternoon in practically the shape that it will be passed by the legislature in all probability. The much-contested question as to whether outdoor labor will be permitted under the law was decided against outdoor labor. The bill, however, is amended so that it does not apply to farm work. It was the sole exception made in favor of outdoor labor. The exception of permitting boys to carry papers was also written in a little different language so that there could be no mistaking of its terms.

TWO-THIRDS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE IS "DRY"

No-License Went Into Effect Today in Two Hundred and Five Towns of the State.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Concord, N. H., May 1.—The changes resulting from last fall's referendum on the liquor question in New Hampshire were put into effect today, with the result that the prohibition territory in this state is probably increased. There are now but 25 towns in New Hampshire in which the sale of wine or wholesale liquor places can be maintained. These 25 towns had a total population of but 20,407, according to the last census. The total population of all the towns in the state was about 250,000, so that as regards the towns by population, more than seven-eighths of them are now no-license. Six of the eleven cities, having an aggregate population of 20,000, are also no-license, so that, including the large cities, about two-thirds of all the people of the state are living in no-license territory.

WOOD'S AMBITION TO BE REALIZED

Will Be Appointed Army Chief of Staff.

Events Due to Happen

In Doings of the Army—Interesting Ranks Scheduled for the Next Seven Days.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, D. C., May 1.—The next twelve months promised to be memorable for the many important changes in the army. Many of these changes will occur in the regular course of events, but many are being accelerated and consequently open to speculation. Prominent among the things that are settled is that Major General Wood, now command of the Military Department of the East, will be appointed chief of staff of the army. General Wood will succeed Major General J. Franklin Bell, whose appointment to his present office was announced immediately after the inauguration of the new administration. General Bell, however, has decided to remain here but a few months, and before next spring he will have command of the troops stationed in the Philippines.

Until General Bell was appointed the office of chief of staff, which is regarded as the most important office in the army, was invariably filled by the officer of highest rank. Lieutenant General Young, of Congress and later chief of the General Staff, followed the request of Lieut. Gen. Henry C. Corbin to be assigned to the command of the southwestern division at St. Louis. Instead of to the office of chief of staff, to which his rank naturally entitled him, General Corbin succeeded General Corbin as lieutenant general, but as he was not on the best of terms with Secretary of War Taft, with whom it seems he had disagreed when they were together in the Philippines, it was deemed best to make no change in the office of chief of staff for his benefit.

No such reasons apply to the case of General Wood, who is a warm personal friend of President Taft. General Wood has enjoyed high favor with President Roosevelt. Thus, two years ago, it was decided that Lieutenant General MacArthur, the senior officer of the army, should go into practical retirement and fill out the remainder of his career on the active list at his old home in Milwaukee, writing his observations of military affairs in the United States. This arrangement for this morning when General Wood, upon his return from the Philippines a year ago, was assigned to the position of chief of staff of the army. The price paid for the purchase of the Bell system was understood to be a little over a quarter of a million dollars.

Manitoba was the first of the Canadian provinces to purchase the Bell system and Alberta then decided to take over the lines. Saskatchewan's deal followed and now the Bell system has disappeared entirely from all the Canadian territory between the great lakes and the Pacific coast.

GOVERNMENT PHONES IN SASKATCHEWAN

Civil service commission will have to one of the hardest subjects with which the legislature will have to contend, and the state officers are powerful, and their influence is powerful, and they are a great war in defeating the civil service commission. The employees around the capital are generally much in favor of the bill in the form in which it has now been drawn as they believe it guards them from the possibility of unjust discharge at the hands of state officers. The question arose over several discharges which occurred in the offices of the state treasurer and secretary of state. The two discharges occurring in the treasury department were the subjects of litigation and one resulted in the reinstatement of the discharged employee.

GAIN DECISION IN COMMITTEE REPORT

State Civil Service Commission Receives Encouragement From Committee Report.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., May 1.—The civil service commission has won a victory over the state officials in regard to the changes to be made in the civil service law.

All but gone to the committee on claims law, which embodies the idea of the civil service commission and provides that no discharges shall be made from any state department unless such discharge is reported to the commission and an appeal on the part of the employee lies to the commission if the employee so desires.

The state officials, with the exception, possibly, of Governor Davidson and Attorney General Gilbert, have been fighting hard for a law which should give the state absolute power of discharge as far as the control of the employees is concerned. The officials are much disappointed that the committee on state affairs has turned the bill of the civil service commission over to the commission on claims in the form it has, and a floor fight is promised over the measure.

The civil service question promised early in the session to be one of the hardest subjects with which the legislature would have to contend, and the state officers are powerful, and their influence is powerful, and they are a great war in defeating the civil service commission. The employees around the capital are generally much in favor of the bill in the form in which it has now been drawn as they believe it guards them from the possibility of unjust discharge at the hands of state officers. The question arose over several discharges which occurred in the offices of the state treasurer and secretary of state. The two discharges occurring in the treasury department were the subjects of litigation and one resulted in the reinstatement of the discharged employee.

DID OREGON HAVE A COMPLETE TEST?

COST FOR ELECTION WAS $9,000 $5000 FOR 130,000 VOTES CAST.

WHAT THE PRIMARY COST

In Money Is Explained to the Legislators by an Oregon Statesman—Says They Learned From Wisconsin.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., May 1.—That the last general election for state and legislative officers in Oregon, in which more than 130,000 votes were cast, cost the candidates only $9,000, was one of the interesting statements of W. S. U'Ren, former member of the Oregon legislature, before members of the Wisconsin assembly and senate in the assembly chamber yesterday afternoon. The meeting was attended by state officers, university faculty members and many others interested in legislation. The burden of the westerner's talk was that in his state the poor man had a chance equal with that of the rich man to run for public office.

Mr. U'Ren explained that the Oregon law provided that the voter could not be pestered by poll-workers, soliciting of votes, arguing for certain measures or persistent peddlers of party tickets. It not only was the cheapest election, but the cleanest ever held in the United States, said the speaker; for no one was arrested for violation of the election laws and no arrests for drunkenness made. This, he said, never has been true in any other Oregon election.

In his opening remarks, Mr. U'Ren said that the state of Oregon had been taught many reforms by the legislative experiments of Wisconsin; also that while his state had benefited greatly by following Wisconsin's example, especially to the extent of copying the referendum law, which he assured his hearers, had worked with great success in the Western states. He said:

"The initiative and referendum has operated to make legislators much more independent and to give us a lower house of sixty units and a senate of thirty units. It has illustrated this perhaps by the story of a famous railroad lobbyist and lawyer who was favoring a bill before the legislature. He gave up in Portland but when he returned to Portland someone asked him how he liked being at the capital under the new conditions. He replied: 'It's nothing but a mob; just a mob; that's all. Hereafter a man's been able to see someone who could get action for him. Now you've got to see 'em all; you can't fix anything.'"

Mr. U'Ren spent considerable time elucidating the Oregon corrupt practice act, a bill somewhat similar to which has been introduced in the Wisconsin legislature. The Oregon law sets a limit of 25 per cent of the first year's salary, 15 per cent of which the candidate may spend in the primary campaign and the remainder in the election. Questioned by his listeners, the speaker maintained that this was sufficient margin for expenditure. He said, however, that a great aid to the candidates was a political pamphlet issued by the secretary of state. This pamphlet includes the pictures and political history of the candidates and is so compiled that no candidate of one party has an unfair advantage over another. When a book has been printed for each party they are sent broadcast to voters throughout the state or districts in which the election is held. Another feature of the law demands an explicit statement of all campaign expenditures even to payments to relatives, those being given by the candidate himself. All campaign account books of candidates must be open at reasonable hours for inspection by anyone.

Chairman Marsh of the investigating committee asked the speaker what methods were used to bring voters to the polls and if expenses of carriages were allowed.

"If a man hasn't sufficient interest in his party or the government to vote without being carried to the polls, he isn't worth taking to the ballot box," answered Mr. U'Ren; "therefore in answering these laws we did not allow expenses under this head."

Speaking of the general election laws of his state, Mr. U'Ren said that the Australian ballot in its original form was in use in Oregon and that there were no party caucuses on the ballot. The candidates for a particular office were grouped together under one head and the party designation appeared opposite the name. Every voter had to make a separate card opposite the name of each candidate for whom he voted.

Until the initiative and referendum laws were adopted each legislature was besought by nearly every citizen in the state for some amendment to its charter, said the speaker. Finally the question was submitted to the people and a general charter law was adopted and which permits each city to alter its own charter at its will. This, he said, had resulted in the municipalities exercising the referendum right locally in new provisions for charter government.

CARLETON TRIO BEAT BY BELOIT DEBATERS

College Orators of Line City Got Unanimous Decision of Judges Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., May 1.—A unanimous decision was awarded the Beloit college freshman debating team in a debate last night with the freshman debating team of Carleton college of Minnesota. Beloit was superior to the Minnesota team, both in argument and delivery, and showed a better mastery of the question. The speakers were: Beloit—David B. Liggott, Harold E. Bruce and Harry E. Goodell; Carleton—Ezra Colquhoun, Edwin P. Nelson and Charles W. Pfeiffer.

The question debated was: Resolved, That a system of asset currency under federal control should be established in the United States. Beloit upheld the affirmative and Carleton the negative. The judges were Prof. D. O. Kinsman, Whitewater Normal; Prof. M. O. Lorenz and Prof. William Price of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. Robert C. Chapin of Beloit college presided over the debate. The debate was held in the college chapel which was comfortably filled. Following the victory was celebrated by a demonstration on the campus, but "Doh" Wilson's opera-house billboards, which have been much abused here before when a big bonfire has been built, were unimpaired.

The Senior class of Beloit college will give its annual play tonight in the opera-house. The production is an English translation of a French comedy, made by Prof. C. Fairfield of Beloit college for the occasion. George Benson of Denver, Colo., will take the title role, "The Climber."

SAM BROWN'S SALARY ORDER WAS HELD UP

Mayor Carle Does Not Think the Aldermen All Understood What They Were Voting Upon.

Proceedings, apparently, on the theory that the common council was fast asleep when it did tardy justice to Officer Sam Brown last Monday evening in passing, by unanimous vote, the salary list which included $30 for his services from March 3 to April 17, 1908. Mayor Carle refused to sign the order on the treasurer. The officer went to see the honor this morning and was told that Alderman Reinhold had complained that the item was "unauthorized through." It is only fair to say that Chairman Brown of the finance committee read name, time and amount with special emphasis and that nobody who was paying attention to business could have failed to hear and clearly understand.

SENATOR TILLMAN VERY SARCASTIC

LIKENS CARNEGIE AND SCHWAB
TO HOGS IN TARIFF SPEECH.

RAPS INFANT. INDUSTRIES

Says Protection Given Them Is Like the Feeding of Pigs Until They Are Ready for Slaughter—McCumber Makes Reply.

Washington, May 1.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina got into the tariff debate yesterday, using some of his characteristic language as he growled. He had a lively set-to with Senator McCumber, who kept his composure in the face of the Tillman sarcasm.

Mr. McCumber referred to the scramble of Democratic senators to get into the protection camp. He declared that "every tariff which protects, I do not care to what extent it protects against a foreign importation, is a protective tariff, and upon that principle my southern friends agree with me and cannot make a better protective tariff speech than I am able to make myself."

Mr. Tillman said that illustrated the zeal of new converts. He insisted there was a difference between protection for revenue and to build up industries.

South Getting Its Share.
Mr. McCumber assured him the south was getting its share.

Mr. Tillman finally said:

"I am afraid before we get through there will not be enough for all the hogs to get their snouts into it. I have observed that it is the desire and ambition of his life on the part of the senator from Rhode Island (Mr. Aldrich) to involve, or bamboozle, or persuade, or whatever instrumentality he may use, enough southern Democrats, so-called or actual, to clamor for protection on some little item in the bill which will give them some little part of this stuff."

Feeding the Pigs.

"I am reminded of a scene which I have witnessed in the past, when I was on the farm and was feeding pigs. The pretense of a protective tariff is that we must have our infant industries protected against foreign pauper labor. That we will all recognize the truth of that, is all of us who are acquainted with farms and farming, that the young pigs do need a little help about weaning time, and that a good farmer will provide a trough apart from the herd of hogs."

"That is protecting infant industries. If he is a good farmer he will continue to feed the pigs along until they have reached a period when the greatest profit going into the meats will have arrived, and he will then slaughter them."

"Will the senator from North Dakota contend that it is wise policy and statesmanship for us, as Americans, to continue to feed the hogs just because they are hogs? In other words, to protect these fellows, with tasks as long as my arms, like Carnegie and Schwab and that crowd?"

McCumber Answers Tillman.
Mr. Tillman persisted in obtaining an answer to his query, if a hog ever becomes grown. Finally Mr. McCumber became impatient and said:

"Whatever the hog may have to say about his growth is not a question for me. The American people, if you want to apply that to the hog, I will say, have not got their growth yet. The only Simon-pure honest American in the world is the senator from South Carolina. I have discussed and other senators have discussed this question very often with the senator from South Carolina, and again and again he has spoken from his seat challenging the integrity of every senator who may possibly disagree with him, and I do wish that for once in his life the senator would get it out of his mind that the Lord Almighty has placed all of the sincerity and honesty in the world and has tied them up in his hide. It is not true. There are other men that can be sincere."

ARREST PROFESSOR'S SLAYERS.

Philippine Head Hunters Taken for Killing Dr. William Jones.

Chicago, May 1.—A telegram from Commissioner Wooster, secretary of the Interior of the Philippine Islands, to Maj. H. F. Edwards, secretary of Insular affairs of the war department at Washington, announces the capture of the murderers of Dr. William Jones, the anthropologist, who was killed last March by head hunters of Dumbaton.

Upon receiving word of the murder of Dr. Jones, Maj. Edwards cabled Commissioner Wooster to capture the entire tribe connected with the murder. Wooster immediately set out with a strong detachment of scouts for the Dumbaton country to recover the body of the scientist and bring the guilty tribe to justice. Until yesterday nothing had been heard of the searchers and for a while it was thought the entire party was lost.

FOOLISH QUESTIONS—NO. 1,375.

It Was Too Late.

The cross-town car was chattering along at a moderate pace, with its 21 passengers wondering if clothing would be included in the new tariff schedule, when a little German hand on a street corner struck up a lively air, and at the same time a young man at the front of the car rose up and made a dash for the rear door. He had gone half the length of the car when he stumbled over the feet of an old man and came down in a sprawl. The car was at once all excitement.

"Trying to pick my pocket, was you?" shouted the old man, as he grabbed for the fallen.

"He's running from the police!" shouted two or three others.

"Hooray! What's this?" demanded the conductor, as he entered and laid hands on the victim.

"Let me go! Let me go!"

"But I want to know who you are and what you've been up to."

"That's right. Make him explain!" chorused the passengers.

"If you don't, I'll call an officer," threatened the conductor.

"I'm a fool! Let me go!"

"But I want to know who you are and what you've been up to."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Also cases of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Never pull a tooth unless it is beyond saving. Dentistry has advanced as a science to such a point that it is practically painless and if applied in time, in an intelligent manner will do wonders in preserving the teeth. Everyone's teeth should be examined at least twice a year so that the little cavities can be checked before they get a good headway. I'll examine your teeth free of charge and estimate for you the cost of having them put in proper shape. I would be glad to examine them and have you compare my prices with those of other dentists.

COLD APRILS FOR TEN YEARS PAST IS THE RECORD

Past Thirty Days Have Not Been Extremely Severe—Record For Ten Years.

On May first, 1907, there was a snowfall of four inches of snow showing that the snow of last night is not such an unusual affair after all. In fact, when the records for the past ten years are looked over it will be seen that the past month has not been such a bad month as the average after all. The river still continues to boom along, but this is due to the heavy rains of the past few days. Janesville is really escaped nicely from any serious damage from the electrical and heavy rain fall and wind storms of the past few days. The prospects for the next twenty-four hours are clear with rising temperature. George J. Kellogg, who formerly made Janesville his home and now lives in Lake Mills, has sent the following interesting table of weather during April of the past ten years that will be read with interest:

The Temperature:
1909—21 days at 32 and below; 11 days above 50; hottest 67.
1908—16 days at 32 and below; 19 days above 50; hottest 80.
1907—24 days at 32 and below; 8 days above 50; hottest 60.
1906—13 days at 32 and below; 25 days above 50; hottest 82.
1905—13 days at 32 and below; 22 days above 50; hottest 75.
1904—22 days at 32 and below; 9 days above 50; hottest 72.
1903—9 days at 32 and below; 21 days above 50; hottest 78.
1902—14 days at 32 and below; 22 days above 50; hottest 75.
1901—13 days at 32 and below; 18 days above 50; hottest 82.
1900—11 days at 32 and below; 19 days above 50; hottest 80.
The Rainfall:
1909, 4.24 in.; 1907, 2.82 in.; 1906, 1.53 in.; 1905, 2.40 in.; 1904, 1.86 in.; 1903, 2.16 in.; 1902, .53 in.; 1901, .71 in.; 1900, 3.00 in.

Not Too Cold.
April shows this year excessive rainfall, but not excessive cold mornings, but there have been less days above 50 than most of the past 10 years.

FLOWER STUDY BEGUN BY CHILDREN'S CLUB

Outdoor Club Talked on Flowers at Meeting Today—Program for Next Saturday.

Of all things done for the benefit of the children of the city, which they most appreciate and enjoy is the Outdoor Club. The instruction in the things of Nature, which they receive, is not only beneficial and for their good, but it holds their interest keenly. And it might be said that old-or members of the families are receiving instruction as well as the youngsters, for their enthusiasm is contagious and their knowledge is freely given. Of late a number of girls have been enrolled as members and their attendance is as regular and prompt as that of the boys.

Beginning today the society began to take up the study of flowers in connection with that of the birds, the better portion of today's talks by the children being given over to that subject. This was followed by a description of Wild Flowers by Prof. C. B. Stout. A vote for the state flower was taken. The subjects discussed this morning were:

Honey Luck—Gilbert Murphy, Baltimore Orioles; Willie Hoffer, Violet—Howard Myhr, Wild Rose—Viola Pratt, White Water Lily—Elizabeth Holmes, Trailing Arbutus—Miss Skavlan, For next Saturday the committee have prepared the following program: Yellow Warbler—Stanley Dalsor, Chickadee—Paul Cullen, Yellow-breasted Chat—Clandine Smith, Field Sparrow—Dean Kimball, Buttercup—Harriet Crane, Windflower—Frances Nazum, Mandrake—Hazel Dalsor.

When the club took the observation trip to the cemetery snapshots were taken of some of the members. This one was taken just as some of the boys were ready to start. ## INTERMEDIATE TEAMS ARE STILL WINNING Tigers Defeated Lovejoy's Team and Pirates Beat Grant's Players Last Night.

"On to Victory" is the slogan of the teams of the Intermediate baseball league and they seem to be gaining what they have set forth to do. Thus far they have had a clean sweep, defeating all and any who attempted to question their skill. The hopes of the older members, that the games last evening might result in the defeat of the intermediates, ended when Lovejoy's team was downed by the Tigers, 22 to 9, and the Giants drubbed the Grant five 20 to 12. Both games were fast and rough but the younger members had a little the better of it all the time. Fools were frequent and the contestants mixed it quite freely. The battle for the championship now lies between the Tigers and the Pirates, who they have cleared the field of all other opponents. On Monday night the Giants and Fox will fight it out and the Cubs and the Naps will struggle for victory. The last game of the series will be held next Friday evening.

The championship of the Business Men's league is still undecided. The game played last night by Blues' team and Wilcox's men failed to settle the question of first honors, as Blues' team by winning have tied with their opponents and the match will have to be played out. The score at the end of the contest was ten to five. Wilcox's players were good at guarding but were unable to locate the basket. Blues' men made a very good showing. P. F. Lewis was the star player for Wilcox, while L. Levy and Dr. Merritt put up a strong game for Blues. The deciding game will be held some time next week.

REV. L. J. VAUGHAN REPORTED AS DYING

Was Operated On in a Dubuque Hospital This Past Week—Will Probably Not Survive.

Reverend W. A. Goebel this morning received a dispatch from Dubuque, Iowa, announcing that Father L. J. Vaughan was in a critical condition and that doubts for his recovery were entertained. Father Vaughan was taken very ill last week and was ordered by the physicians at Cuba City where he has been stationed for some months past, to go to a hospital at once. Too weak to return to Dubuque, where Father Goebel was summoned on Monday last, he was operated on during the week, a stoppage of the gall was being discovered and removed. Father Goebel returned last night and this morning received word that his friend and fellow priest would probably not recover.

Engine Trial Monday: On Monday, with the weather permitting, a second monthly trial of the new steam engine will be held. The test will not be conducted in front of the fire station as heretofore, but in some other place as yet undecided upon.

BOY SNEAK-THIEVES IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Carl Kosseski and James Hemming Were Bound Over for Trial Under $400 Bail This Morning. Carl Kosseski and James Hemming, the two Chicago youths who were arrested Thursday morning on the charge of stealing a gold watch and two finger rings belonging to Miss Gustie Becker at the Railroad hotel, were examined in municipal court this morning and bound over for trial on Thursday, May 6. Bail was fixed at $400 in both instances and being unable to furnish the same, the pair will spend the intervening time in the county jail.

Took $30 From Safe. Young Kosseski apparently made a clean breast of the whole affair and the surprise of the morning was his voluntary admission that about ten days ago he stole from the safe at the Railroad hotel $30, which had been placed up to this time. Landlord Charles H. Carpenter said that he had suspected that some money had been taken therefrom but had not supposed that it was so large an amount. There was a two dollar bill and the rest was in silver, according to Kosseski, and he took the money and Mr. Carpenter's $12 fountain pen with him to Chicago, where he and some friends proceeded to have a good time. A fellow named Stanley, he said, took the fountain pen away from him and gave it to Max Schultz who lives at 757 Elson avenue, Janesville. Looked Easy.

This Stanley and James Hemming who lived but a few doors from the small defendant's former home at 64 Baumgartner street, in the northwest section of Chicago, became interested in Kosseski and by means that they would cut him up pieces which they would use to make a knife. He said, he said, he failed to comply, induced him to make a trip back here in their company. The safe which had yielded the $30 was to be the objective point of the venture and the trio "bummed" their way here last Tuesday.

Stopped at the London. Tuesday night they slept in a woodshed and Wednesday Kosseski "snuck" into the Railroad hotel and got two pocketbooks containing $2. Hemming was with him and insisted that he get to the safe and take over the loot. After that they would be out for good. But conditions were unfavorable and Kosseski did not make the effort. That night they bought trips and Hemming and the defendant stopped at the London hotel. They spent all of the $6 but $3.70 which remained in Hemming's hands.

In Ice Box Short Time.

Witness testified that Hemming was not with him when he "lifted" the watch and jewelry but was "waiting around outside. He had to hide in the ice box for time and also when he had to escape detection. After getting away from the place he turned the property over to Hemming. Stanley, meantime, had gone back to Chicago. The youth also said that he would be sixteen years old next June; that his home had been nowhere since his mother died; and that a sister named Mrs. Annie Koss resides somewhere in Madison.

Wouldn't Be Petted.

Kosseski is small for his age and has the dimpled, sympathetic countenance of one of Raphael's cherubs. He does not, however, like to be petted. An African school-teacher, who visited the jail this week, put her arm around him and started to say, "soothly," "I can't believe this little boy did such a thing—he must have been led into it," when the unappreciative young rogue put up a series of outrageous screams and burst into tears.

Hemming on the Stand.

Hemming, in the course of his examination, testified that he was sixteen years old last August; that he had been steadily employed, except during the annual three weeks' lay-off for counting stock, at J. Tilt & Co.'s shoe factory, located on the C. & M. & St. P. railroad and Huron street, for four years past; that he had decided to go to Montana and was on his way to Minneapolis when he happened to run across Kosseski who was headed for Janesville; that the latter had never been a neighbor of his and that he had never seen him but once or twice in his life and did not know him by any name other than "Doc"; that Kosseski told him to steal and that Kosseski had informed him that he found the jewelry at the time he asked Hemming to take care of it for him.

A Poor Financier.

When he saw the police chasing Kosseski, however, he realized that the latter had gotten into trouble of some kind and concluded that it would be best to hide the rings and watch in the bathroom of his mother's apartment. Witness said that he left Chicago with $5.15 in his pockets and by a clever system of questioning District Attorney Fisher got him to detail what sums he expended without the witness' suspecting what the object was. The total of his expenditures amounted to $22.50, which would have left him $22.65, whereas the police took about $2.10 from him when he was searched.

Jewelry Worth $58.

Chief Appleby testified that the jewelry was so cleverly hidden that he did not find it until Hemming had been subjected to a third search. Miss Gustie Becker, a dining room girl at the Railroad hotel, identified the stolen property. She said that the solid gold watch was worth $35 or $40; one of the rings, $8, and the other $15.

RAIN WASHED AWAY SUPPORT OF HOUSE

And Home of Mrs. Minerva Rock Dropped Down into the Cellar. Accident Happened During Storm.

Thursday night the home of Mrs. Minerva E. Rock, 418 North River street, had its underpinnings washed down from under it and it fell down into the cellar. The house had been raked up on Jack-saws while repairs were being made to the foundation and the water washed these out, letting the house down. Luckily for Mrs. Rock, who did not remain at home that evening, but spent the night at a friend's, otherwise she might have been severely injured. The furniture and other furnishings, however, were in the house. Since the accident, workmen have started at work tearing down the building.

Unique Club Meeting: A regular meeting of the Unique club will be held tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

Miss Schlicker's New Horse: Miss Elizabeth Schlicker has returned from Mineral Point, where she purchased a fine bay gelding that took first prize in the driving horse class at the Darlington fair last autumn.

LOADED SHELL IS A VERY DANGEROUS TOY

Five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Splitter shot and killed Self While They Were Away.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Edgerton, May 1.—Walker, the little five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Splitter, near Newville, accidentally shot and killed himself yesterday while playing with a hammer and loaded shell. Mr. and Mrs. Splitter drove to Edgerton in the morning to do their weekly trading and while away the little fellow in some unaccountable manner secured the shell and hammer. He struck the shell so it exploded, striking him above the right eye and killing him almost instantly. The parents found their little son dead on their arrival home. They are half crazed over the accident. The grief-stricken parents have the sympathy of the whole community.

The society event of the season took place in Royal hall last evening when the sundowner minstrels composed of the ladies of the Federation of Women's Clubs of this city donned their glad rags and burnt cork and played to a crowded house. It was a first-class entertainment from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The costumes were extremely fetching and the jokes now and then. The laughable farce entitled "The Colored New Improvements City Club" was certainly fine. It was an original farce composed by a committee from the different clubs and was very well given. Once again the home talent of Edgerton has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the public its ability to equal, if not surpass, many professional acts. "The Merry Widow" was also one of the pleasing features of the evening, which won a great deal of applause. The whole entertainment was a social as well as a financial success. The proceeds were $150.

James Lay suffered a stroke of apoplexy yesterday and is very low at the present writing.

The Ladies' Bridge club met this afternoon with Mrs. James Conway.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cullen entertained last evening at a dancing party at their pleasant home on Washington street. About twenty couples were present. Dancing refreshments were served to the guests after the dance. Assemblyman L. C. Whittier, Lorry, Levlins, George Atwood, Thomas Whitmore and Henry and Speaker Hancock came down from Madison last evening to attend the sundowner minstrels, and afterward were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cullen at their dancing party.

Grant Robinson of Chicago was calling on old friends here yesterday.

Miss Myrtle Mulholland went to Milwaukee last evening to visit the coming week. While there she will be the guest of Miss Lorraine Dreyfus and Miss Ely Culver.

Miss Ruth Lusk left last evening for Koshong for an over-Sunday visit with her aunt, Mrs. Alex. Schumann.

H. S. McGinn of Janesville spent Friday with his mother, Mrs. I. M. Howard.

L. Wolf and son, Richard, of New York are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cullen.

Mrs. Lizzy Kelley and son, Paul, of Milton Junction are guests for over Sunday of Geo. Hargraves and daughter, Norma.

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT at London, Eng.—The militant suffragettes of London are this week the hostesses of those interested in woman's rights over the entire world. Delegates from chilly Iceland and hot Australia mingle with the dainty Japanese and other delegates from nearly every civilized land.

The American delegates at the International Woman's Suffrage congress are headed by the president of the congress, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. There are two ministers of the gospel among the delegates, the Rev. Anna H. Shaw and Rev. Mary Safford. Another delegate is Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who is the mother of a duchess. Mrs. William M. Lyne is the wife of a man noted in municipal deputations in New York City, and each of the others has also a title to some degree of distinction apart from her share in suffrage agitation. They include Mrs. L. A. Conley Ward of Illinois, Mrs. M. L. Reine Baker of Washington and the others, who are attending the convention but have no vote.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, as the president of the congress, has received considerable attention from the press of London, and the exploits of the militant suffragettes do not appear to impress her very much. She has been watching them in London since February. She said in an interview in the Wallace Palace hotel that the International Woman's Suffrage alliance, being non-partisan, she could not express her opinion of the methods of agitation used here.

"This," said Mrs. Catt, "might be called the first official congress we shall have had since the organization of the alliance was completed five years ago in Berlin, and now, for the first time, we have the right to amend

Left, REV. ANNA H. SHAW, Right, the constitution. One matter of great importance is to be settled in the formation of a code of international parliamentary rules. None such now exists, strange to say, for the use of any of the various kinds of societies, which hold international conferences.

"The question, however, about which there is most feeling and difference of opinion is whether more than one society in each country shall hereafter be allowed to send delegates to the congress. The fact that this question is urgently presented is significant of the rapid growth of the movement. When the alliance was organized no country had more than one woman suffrage society. Certain countries now have a great many. One strongly Catholic country, which I will not name, has one suffrage association in that faith, and a second with only Protestant membership. One will oppose direct representation to the congress being given to the other.

"In Austria-Hungary antagonism among the races also furnishes a problem as to the extension of representation.

"In two more countries an active propaganda is progressing; those are Austria and Iceland. The only countries where there is a diminution of membership are Australia and Norway, which is accounted for by the fact that in both full suffrage has been achieved; in all others the membership is vastly increased. England will, I think, grant full suffrage to women before America, largely because a change in the constitution of the latter is so difficult and tedious.

"Men of all countries will gain when this inevitable political reform comes. They now have too much responsibility. They will find relief when women begin to share it."

are GUARANTEED to wear longer than any other corset because the triple strip re-enforcement prevents bones and steels from cutting through the material.

Chicago, May 1.—Reports from the districts devastated by tornadoes and cyclones Thursday indicate that fully 130 persons lost their lives, while 300 were injured, some so badly that the death list may be materially increased. Two were killed in this city. The tornadoes touching here and there carried their devastation through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri.

Golden, Mo.; Hillsboro, Tenn., and Locke, Tenn., were wiped off the map by the storm, the last named being a small village 18 miles from Memphis. The heaviest loss of life was recorded in Giles county, Tenn., where 20 persons were killed and many injured.

Fifty Dead in Tennessee. Nashville, Tenn., May 1.—Advices being received by the Banner show that the storm was the worst ever known in this state. The indications are that the death list in this state will foot up 50 or more, and the damage will run into the millions of dollars. The winds are prostrated, in every direction, and it will be several days before the full extent of the loss of life and damage will be known.

Twenty Dead in County. Pulaski, Tenn., May 1.—Twenty persons were reported to have been killed and 40 injured in a tornado which swept over the eastern section of Giles county yesterday. Deo Springs, a village in the southeast section, 10 miles from Pulaski, was reported to have been totally destroyed. The country in this section is devastated and details are meager.

Eight Reported Killed. Mammoth Springs, Ark., May 1.—A tornado passed 18 miles east of here killing eight persons and injuring many others. The known dead: D. F. Sanders, wife and daughter, George Whitworth and wife, Robert Frost and wife, Miss Holland. Many houses were demolished near Mammoth Springs and much livestock was killed.

Four Die in Illinois Town. Carmi, Ill., May 1.—A tornado swept over this city, 32 miles south of here, yesterday killing four persons and injuring several more. The dead: Ed, Overton, Mrs. Ed, Overton, infant child of the Overtons, servant girl employed in Overton home. Further information is not yet obtainable, except that many houses were destroyed and the whole town practically wrecked.

Fifteen Die in Tennessee. Memphis, Tenn., May 1.—Memphis was the center of a storm yesterday, which destroyed a number of plantation buildings, caused the loss of 15 lives and injury to 12 others, besides rendering useless telephone and telegraph wires by the score.

Near West Marion, Ark., the storm covered a wide range, demolishing 24 dwelling houses, besides a number of smaller buildings. One woman, Miss Nancy Young, was killed and four persons were injured.

Near Wheatley, Ark., an unknown negro was killed, another negro probably fatally wounded, and Mrs. Hal Trash was badly injured.

miles wide swept this section yesterday and caused a property damage estimated at $100,000. The path of destruction extends over several counties, and extreme damage was done by the wind in the towns of Piqua, Sidney, Houston, Fletcher, St. Paris and Kirkwood. No loss of life. Hillsboro, Tenn., Destroyed. Nashville, Tenn., May 1.—The town of Hillsboro, nine miles west of Franklin, was practically wiped out and three persons, names unknown, were killed in a house demolished by the wind. Many barns and houses between Franklin and Hillsboro were unroofed. Hundreds of shade trees on the old John McGavock farm, historic as being the battlefield of Franklin, were blown down and all of the barns on the place destroyed.

Golden, Mo., Wiped Off Map. Springfield, Mo., May 1.—A special from Summersville, Mo., says a tornado passed ten miles north of that place, killing 11 persons and injuring many. Loss in Indiana Heavy. Evansville, Ind., May 1.—A wind storm in southern Indiana and western Kentucky yesterday caused many thousands of dollars' damage in the destruction of outbuildings and fences. The gale blow at the velocity of 60 miles an hour. Roofs could not leave port. The damage along the river is quite heavy.

The storm that swept southern Illinois Thursday night was the worst in many years. On the farm of William T. Garner, near Texas City, Ill., south of Carmi, Edgar Overton, his wife and infant child, and Daniel Stallings, an employe, were instantly killed when their house was blown down.

At Wassen, a mining town, near Eldorado, Ill., the storm leveled a number of mining camps, killing Jesse Mason, a mechanic, and seriously injuring several others. The Little Wabash river is out of its banks and a great deal of damage is being done along the lowlands.

Tidal Wave in Lake. Detroit, Mich., May 1.—A tidal wave ten feet high at South Haven, on the east shore of Lake Michigan, was the most unusual feature of the terrific wind and rain storm which swept over lower Michigan. The wave caused about $2,000 damage to water front property at South Haven.

Southern Ohio Swept. Cincinnati, May 1.—A violent wind storm that swept over Kentucky yesterday hit Latonia with almost the severity of a tornado, causing a damage of $10,000 to the Latonia race track and from $10,000 to $15,000 damage to the town of Latonia and the vicinity.

ROSE AND DICKIE ANGRY. Personalities Creep Into Second Debate on Liquor. Chicago, May 1.—Acrimony and at least the semblance of the heat of passion developed during the progress of the debate on prohibition last night between Prof. Samuel Dickie of Albion, Mich., and Mayor David R. Ross of Milwaukee, before an audience of 3,000 at the Auditorium.

Personalities crept into the debate when the speakers arose to answer each other's formal arguments. Ross called Dickie "a nice spot and faller." Dickie replied with "lawbreaker" and "one who disregards the truth."

It was the second debate of a series, the first having been held in Milwaukee a month ago, and therefore even in the main addresses, which had been prepared in advance, the personal equation crept in, as one or the other would answer some criticism made during the previous debate, but the fur did not begin to fly until the impromptu rebuttal speeches, in which each had the chance to tear down the arguments of the other.

CLOSES 385 MICHIGAN SALOONS. "Dry" Vote in Effect—Puts Ten Breweries Out of Business. Detroit, Mich., May 1.—At midnight last night 385 saloons and ten breweries in 19 counties of Michigan, which voted "dry" at the last election, closed their doors. Thirty of the 83 counties in the state are now "dry."

The counties in which the saloons closed are: Allegan, Eaton, Livingston, Calhoun, Jackson, Branch, Hillsdale, Ionia, Genesee, Sanilac, Tuscola, Isabella, Newaygo, Clare, Alcona, Kalamazoo, Benzie, Charlevoix and Emmet. In Sanilac and Jackson counties legal proceedings have been begun by the "wets" in an effort to overthrow the result of the election.

Results in Indiana. Indianapolis, Ind., May 1.—At the county option election yesterday Tippecanoe county went "wet" by 900. The city of Lafayette is "wet" by 2,400. Jefferson county went "dry" by 98. The city of Madison in Jefferson county went "wet" by 992. Martin county is "dry" by 400. Washington county is "dry" by 1,200.

MODERN WAY OF LIVING

Has a Tendency to Weaken the Strongest.

One hundred years ago there was less kidney trouble than there is today. The worry, hurry, and overwork of modern living doubles the work of the kidneys, wears and weakens the muscles unable to properly do their duty of filtering the poisons from the blood. As a result the whole system runs down.

Heed the slightest symptom of kidney trouble—the first backache, the first irregularity of the urine. It may be the forerunner of dangerous disease. You can cure yourself quickly with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read the experience of a Janesville citizen. Chas. W. Allen, living in Janesville, Wis., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they are all right. I can endorse them as a good kidney and backache remedy and one that can be relied upon. I suffered from these troubles for a long time, and although I used different preparations I received no relief. Finally I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the People's Drug Co. and began their use. In a few days the trouble left me and has never returned. I can certainly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

TRIES TO EXTRADITE EDITORS.

Government Attorney Starts Proceedings Against Indianapolis Men.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 1.—Stuart McNamara, assistant United States district attorney of the District of Columbia, arrived in this city yesterday to begin the further proceedings against Delvin Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, indicted in the District of Columbia, with the proprietors of the New York World, on the charge of having libeled former President Roosevelt and other by printing allegations that there had been an enormous "graff" in connection with the purchase by the United States of the Panama canal tract.

The first step in the matter was taken this morning when Mr. McNamara and Charles W. Miller, United States attorney for this district, asked Judge Anderson for an order for the removal of the defendants to the District of Columbia. He may set a later date for a hearing on the question.

THE HEAVENS IN MAY.

By Professor Eric Doolittle of the University of Pennsylvania.

Searching for Halley's Comet. Favorable time for viewing the swiftly moving planet Mercury.

As summer approaches the brilliant winter stars rapidly withdraw from the evening sky. Already the two brightest groups of all, Auriga and Orion, have disappeared, and during this month the great Leo begins his downward course across the western heavens. The mid-summer star, Spica, the beautiful golden sun which marks the equinox of about June 21, is in the hand of the Virgin, and is nearly reached the meridian, while in the southern part of the constellation the stars well above the ground, and about this figure, the most striking of all the summer groups, will have risen entirely from the horizon. The entire winter branch of the Milky Way lies above the ground in the west.

Figure 2. The motion of the sun and Venus during May and the position of Mercury on May 20.

and in the east the summer branch is just appearing, so the new for a few weeks both branches can be seen at once. On a clear night this pathway of the stars may be traced around the entire horizon from the southeast through the north to the southwest. The enormous constellation, the Great Bear, of which the Great Dipper is a part, is now almost exactly overhead, while near this one may trace out Ursa Major, the delicate little northern crown, and the large but less striking group Hercules, with its wonderful star cluster at  $\epsilon$  (Fig. 1). To Hercules some of the most beautiful double stars of the sky. Perhaps the most striking of these is that formed by two stars at  $\delta$ , which are six seconds apart, and one of which is of orange color, while the other is greenish. The star at  $\delta$  is also a double, the colors being greenish and blue, and the star at  $\epsilon$  is a remarkable system of three stars revolving around one another, but which appears to be merely a double star system in a small telescope. It is toward the point  $\delta$  of this region that our eyes are irresistibly rushing through space with a speed of seven miles a second, carrying the earth along with it. At the end of each 24 hours we are nearly a million miles further on in our path than we were at the beginning, yet so inconceivably great are the distances which separate the stars, of which our sun is one, that it is only by the most delicate measures that any alterations in their directions can be detected even after we have continued our journey for years.

Though there are three planets which are now evening stars, there is only one of these which during the month is at all conspicuous. This is the magnificent Jupiter, which shines out near the center of the constellation Leo, just above the star at  $\delta$ . It is also a double, the circles of each 12 years to complete the circuit of the heavens in its slow, southeast journey among the stars. For many weeks it has been moving westward, but on May 1, at 7 P. M., it becomes stationary and then begins its motion in a new direction. Though its motion is so slow, the observer can readily detect it by noticing the position of the planet in reference to the star at  $\delta$  on a few different evenings.

The planet Venus, which passed to the east of the sun on April 28, is as yet moving upward in the evening sky so slowly that even by the end of this month it will not yet reach its highest point. It may be seen shining out in the twilight glow almost exactly above the horizon at 8 on a few different evenings.

At this date the planet will have reached its greatest distance east of the sun; it will then be at the point  $\delta$ , Fig. 2, and will not yet reach its highest point. After reaching the point  $\delta$ , Mercury will light glow almost exactly above the horizon at 8 on a few different evenings.

and conspicuous feature of the evening sky. There is a great chance for the first time, so much is said about the difficulty of observing it that the reader who has found it will probably be surprised to find it so easily seen.

At this date the planet will have reached its greatest distance east of the sun; it will then be at the point  $\delta$ , Fig. 2, and will not yet reach its highest point. After reaching the point  $\delta$ , Mercury will light glow almost exactly above the horizon at 8 on a few different evenings.

At this date the planet will have reached its greatest distance east of the sun; it will then be at the point  $\delta$ , Fig. 2, and will not yet reach its highest point. passing Venus on June 7, at which time the two planets will be two degrees apart.

HALLEY'S COMET. This most celebrated comet is still being systematically searched for by astronomers who expose delicate photographic plates in the region of the sky in which it is known that it will first make its appearance, but up to this date it has not been detected. Figure 3 is a copy of a representation of the comet on tapestry, made by the wife of William the Conqueror at the time of the Norman invasion in 1066. Ever since its capture, more than two thousand years ago, the comet has pursued a closed path about the sun, drawing near to the earth at the interval of every seventy-five years. It has always been a bright and striking object, sometimes stretching nearly half way across the sky, and sometimes being bright enough to be seen in full daylight. It is very probable that on its present reappearance it will exceed in brilliance any of the comets which have been seen since the Great comet of the year 1066, and it will consequently attract the attention of every observer.

NEW HAIR NET

Small Hairpins Are Woven Fast to the Borders and Meshing.

It requires three Londoners to develop the improved hair net which is shown in the illustration, but it would probably take more than three to get it on. It is a beautiful net, and one of the most important of the net family. The net portion of this important netting is so different from that of any other hair net, but the value of the invention lies in the fact that it will "stay put." Along the borders are fastened a lot of little hairpins and a circle of small meshing passes through the middle part. Hairpins are also attached to this circle and are woven into the meshing. When one of these pins is adjusted it holds the net in place, and it is ready to withdraw the multiplicity of little pins which hold it in place, fitting so closely, it has not the objection raised to some old style nets that the ends come loose and give an untidy appearance to the coiffure.

THE HOUSE HUNTER.

She riseth up at early dawn,
She putteth her street apparel on;
She bolleth her breakfast, hasty away,
And hunteth up houses the live long day.
She returneth home, worn out and vexed,
Till the same next day, and the next and next;
So at last she putteth away her hat,
And decideth to live in the same flat.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG,
SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures. If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

First he carted 'em out to the hen yard. He paraded up and down in front of the coops, pointing out the scraggly Plymouth Rocks as if they were some kind of freaks, like ostriches. He said they ate a bag of corn a day and laid one egg a week, so he figured that every egg was worth five dollars or so. What did the parson think of a donation of half a dozen of them eggs?

"Not to eat, you understand," says Van; "but as rarities, as curiosities." The minister was a young fellow, not long out of college, and pretty straight-laced. But he had some fun in him. "If I might suggest," he says, "I think one of the hens themselves would be more acceptable and profitable. Among our summer people there is a great demand for antiques. Now one of those hens—"

That tickled Van. He told Hartley afterwards that the minister was a trump. He donated several—not with eggs nor poultry neither—and promised that he and Hartley would attend the sale.

And they did. And so did Eureka and me. The lawn was laid out in the meeting, house front yard, and 'twas all rigged up fine with flags and tissue paper and bunting. There was a grab bag and a cake table and a fancy goods table, and I don't know what all. All the summer folks was there, and most of the town women and girls, and the prices charged for things would have been highway robbery if it hadn't been a church that was charging 'em.

The Heavenlies bought and bought and bought. They bought everything—the foolthings. Van bought three pair of embroidered suspenders and a crocheted tidy and a pin cushion, and Martin got a worsted afghan and a hand-painted soft pillow, so fresh that the point came off on your hands when you touched it. And 'twas a quiet colored paint neither. And when you rubbed off one layer there was another underneath. Loretta Danile's daughter had painted it; she was taking lessons and her ma said that she'd painted that pillow over much as a dozen times, because the colors wasn't "blending right" or the subject didn't suit her. 'Twas so stiff with paint on top that 'twould have been like ramming your head into force to lay on it.

We stayed till most everything was sold but a log cabin bed quilt that the Christian puffers at the poor-house had made. Nobody seemed to want that, although they was sayin' enough in it to build a rainbow. The minister's wife said she was so sorry. The poor things at the almshouse had worked so hard.

"You wait a minute," says Van. "I'll get rid of it."

He took out his vest pocket memorandum book and tore about ten pages into little squares. Then he made numbers on these squares with a pencil. Half of them he put into his hat, and the next I knew, he was standing on a chair, waving the bedquilt with one hand and the hat with t'other.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he shouts, "Here is positively the last chance to secure this magnificent—or—Lambrykin."

The boy reddened up and grinned and looked foolish, but he stuck a freckled paw in, and took out a piece of paper.

"Number 14," shouts Van Brunt. "Number 14 secures the—the tapestry. Who's the lucky one?"

Everybody unfolded their papers, but there didn't seem to be any 14. Hartley had three, but he wasn't in it. "Number 14," Van calls. "Who is 14? Mr. Morton, you began this. Where is your ticket?"

The minister looked dreadfully troubled. "Really," he stammered, "I—I—it was a mistake. I—"

"Here's yours, Mr. Morton," says a little girl. "You dropped it on the ground."

The parson looked pretty sick. He reached for it, but Van got it first. "Number 14 it is," he says. "Our esteemed friend, Rev. Mr. Morton, secures the prize. That's no it should be. Three cheers for Mr. Morton!"

The summer folks give the cheers, but the church folks looked pretty average wild, I thought.

I forgot how much was in Van Brunt's pocket. That bedquilt fetched in enough money to pretty nigh buy the poorhouse itself.

The Twins felt good. They figured that they'd made a hit at that "Lambrykin."

"Great success, my raffle idea, wasn't it, skipper," says Van Brunt, on the way home. "I didn't answer right off, Eureka spoke up."

"Well," she says, "it sold the bedquilt, but I wouldn't wonder if it made the new minister lose his job. You see, 'twas gambling, and that church is dreadful down on gambling. Mrs. Patterson told me that she should have her husband call a parish meeting right off. I guess you won't be invited to no more sales this year."

And we wa'n't. Poor Morton had a awful time explaining, and the only way he could get out of it was to lay it heavy on the Twins. He had to preach a sermon giving gambling its, and all around town 'twas nothing but how dissipated and wicked the Heavenlies was. We wa'n't fit for decent folks to associate with.

But I ain't been able to learn, even yet, that the bedquilt money was returned to the ticket buyers.

Van got a long letter from Agnes Page a little later, saying that she had heard of him as a "disturbing influence" and that she was shocked and grieved. He thought 'twas a great joke and didn't seem to care much. Noto Scudder was glad of the whole business. He didn't want nobody else to be milking his own pot crows.

Me and Eureka was glad, too, in a way. We judged that Van's being in disgrace with his girl would help Hartley's side along. And in a few days another idea began to develop that when I found it out, seemed to me likely to help him more.

Eureka told me that she'd seen a dress pattern at the church sale that she wanted awful. I asked her why she didn't buy it and she said 'twas two dollars and a half and she couldn't afford it. Hartley heard her say it and he looked out into the kitchen and began to ask questions, pumping her, sort of quiet, to find out what she done with her money. After she'd

Some home he says to me: "Skipper, that girl is robbing herself to support that old loafer, her father."

"That's right," says I. "It's my opinion that she ain't never told him that she ain't getting that extra two dollars a week. I guess she pays every cent into the house."

"It's a shame!" says he. "Can't we make the old vagabond earn his own living?"

"When you do," I says, "I'll believe that blackie the blonde shade of white. Making Washy Sparrow would be as big a miracle as the loaves and fishes."

He thought a spell. "Well, I mean to look into the matter," he says. "Gee, I want you to find out who owns that apology for a house they live in. Don't ask Eureka. We must keep it a secret from her or she'll interfere. And we may as well not tell Van, either. He's so careless that he might give it away."

"All right," says I. "I'll ask Scudder. He knows 'most all of everybody's business and Huddy Ann knows the rest."

So when Nate came, after breakfast next morning, I asked him. "What do you want to know for?" he says, as usual.

"Oh, nothing. Just curious, that's all."

"They ain't going to move out, are they?" He seemed mighty interested.

"No, not," says I. "Where'd they move to? Think they're going to Washington to visit the president or the diplomatic corps?"

"Well," he says, "you needn't get mad. I didn't know but they might be coming over here. I don't mind telling you. Huddy Ann, my wife, owns the place, if you want to know."

I was surprised. He was a regular sand-bag for bubbling up where you didn't expect it.

"She does?" says I. "Say, Nate, for the land sakes how much more of this country belongs to you and Huddy? And how much did you pay for it?"

He went on with a long ramble about a mortgage and a second mortgage and "foreclosing to protect himself," and so on. All I see in it was more proofs that lambs fooling with Nate Scudder was likely to lose, not only wool, but hoofs, hide and tail.

When I told Hartley he seemed real pleased. "That makes it easy," he says. "Scudder will accommodate me by doing a little favor, won't he?"

"Sure thing!" says I, sarcastic. "Ain't he been accommodating you ever since you struck town?"

"Yes," he says, "he has. Scudder is a generous chap."

And he meant it, too! Why the good Lord lets such simple innocents as him and his chum run around loose for it—but there! No doubt he has his reasons. And what would become of the summer hotels without that kind?
